Management experience

- Since 2017: Principal of the Brexit Institute at Dublin City University. The job required directing the Institute and planning its activities, including all workshops and conferences. Moreover, it also involves directing the work of several Post-Doc researchers and administrative staff working full-time on campus, and coordinating the work of visiting fellows. It also implied developing academic partnerships and liaising with high-level institutions and private organizations to identify speakers. Crucially, then the job required fund-raising – and I personally raised close to 1 million € of funding to cover in full the operational costs of the Institute (staff and activities) from 2018 to 2024.
- Since 2017: Director of the Law Research Center at Dublin City University. The job required coordinating all law research activities, including running a weekly seminar series in each semester with keynote speakers from across Ireland, Europe and the world – including members of the judiciary. The job also entailed fund-raising with over 50.000€ collected over the years to support the Center activities.
- Since 2016: Chair of Law at the School of Law & Government of Dublin City University. The job required taking all strategic direction on the future shape of Law at DCU – with the possible future objective of creating a separate Law School. Practical responsibilities entailed sitting in all selection and promotion committees for Law Assistant Professors, Associate Professors, Post-Doc and PhD – as well as mentoring the work of junior colleagues, developing new taught programs (notably a “Master in European Law & Policy” and a “Master in Data Protection and Privacy Law”), and building new international partnerships (including with Trento University Faculty of Law and Stanford Law School).
- 2015-14: Chair of the Selection Committee of iCourts (Center of Excellence for International Courts), at the Faculty of Law of the University of Copenhagen in charge of selecting 3 Post-Docs and 3 PhD students. The job required evaluating roughly 30 candidates for each position, shortlisting them, and conducting Skype interviews with the highest qualified.
- 2014-13: Manager of the E-Journal of the Faculty of Law of the University of Copenhagen on SSRN.
- 2014-13: Chair of the Selection Committee of the “Global Law” program at Tilburg Law School. The job required shortlisting students’ applications and conducting Skype interviews with roughly 130 of them to decide admission in the LLB program.
- 2014-12: Member of the 3-person Steering Committee of the “Global Law” Program at Tilburg Law School (<http://www.tilburguniversity.edu/education/bachelors-programmes/globallaw/>). The job required making strategic decisions about the design of the program, managing issues related to the curriculum, interacting with colleagues teaching the various courses and the administration, and promoting the program both with prospective students and with potential employers and other stakeholders (e.g. law firms, private corporations etc.) including by raising funding for scholarships.
- 2014-12: Manager of the E-Journal of Tilburg Law School on SSRN.

Teaching program development

- Promotor of the Master in European Law & Policy, established at DCU School of Law & Government in academic year 2017-2018. The program, open to students with an interdisciplinary background in Law, Politics, Economics and Business Administration trains them in EU affairs;
- Promotor of the Master in Data Protection & Privacy Law, established at DCU School of Law & Government, jointly with the School of Computing Engineering in academic year 2018-2019. Policy and advocacy

- 2022-2021: Member of the Young European Leader of Friends of Europe, class of 2022. The group – in which I was coopted by the Board of Trustees upon nomination of the former President of the European Parliament Pat Cox – involves a dozen individuals below 40 years old of age, who are regarded as influential thinkers on EU issues, posited to play a leading role in Europe’s future, including several national Ministers. The group gathers periodically in European capitals to discuss EU and international affairs.
- 2017: Member of the team that drafted the “Rome Manifesto”, under the sponsorship of Villa Vigoni (the Italian-German Center for European Excellence, founded by the German Ministry of Culture) and United Europe. The team, which grouped a dozen individuals from across the European Union, under the patronage of Sylvie Goulard (Member of European Parliament), Peer Steinbrück (former Minister of Finance of Germany), and Filippo Taddei (Economic Advisor to the Prime Minister of Italy) drafted a document relaunching the project of European integration in view of the 60th anniversary of the Rome Treaty, which was presented at the German Embassy in Rome in March 2017.
- 2018-2017: Collaborator of the Bertelsmann Stiftung and the Jacques Delors Institut - Berlin. These institutions are non-political foundations based in Berlin, Germany, which finance research and policy-making in the field of European studies. The collaboration involves the provision of legal advice to a Committee drafting a report on the future of Europe, entitled “Repair and Prepare: Growth and the Euro After Brexit”. The Committee is chaired by Enrico Letta (former Prime Minister of Italy), coordinated by Henrik Enderlein (Professor of Political Economy, Hertie School of Governance), and composed of a dozen high-level policy makers including Pascal Lamy (former Director General of the World Trade Organization), Lorenzo Bini Smaghi (former Member of the Executive Committee of the European Central Bank) and Jörg Asmussen (Secretary of State at the Ministry of Finance of Germany). The work consisted specifically in the advising on the legality and institutional implications of EMU reforms, particularly in the context of Brexit.
- 2018-2012: Collaborator with the Centro Studi sul Federalismo [Center for the Study of Federalism (CSF)]. The CSF is a non-political think-tank based in Turin, Italy, which promotes policy-oriented research on the EU, with specific focus on institutional questions. The collaboration involved the publication of several research papers on themes related to recent EU institutional developments, later published in peer-reviewed journals.
